

SASHMADE

About the Company

Sashmade is a Ghanaian brand that specialises in the design and production of premium customised kente sashes for graduations, academic ceremonies, pageants, and special events. We create sashes that go beyond decoration each piece is designed to represent achievement, identity, and cultural pride.

Sashmade was founded from a personal experience during a Master's programme, when we wanted a sash that truly reflected our academic journey and class identity. Unable to find one that felt meaningful and well-designed, we created our own. The positive response and growing demand from other students inspired the birth of Sashmade.

Today, we work with students, institutions, and organisations to produce high-quality, professionally finished sashes tailored to their colours, logos, names, and themes. We combine authentic Ghanaian kente with modern embroidery and careful finishing to ensure every sash is both beautiful and durable.

Our long-term vision is to expand into training young people in kente weaving and sash production, helping to preserve this important cultural craft while creating opportunities for the next generation.

At Sashmade, we don't just make sashes we create symbols of honour, achievement, and lasting memories.

Our Vision

To become a leading brand in Africa for premium customised kente sashes while preserving and promoting Ghanaian textile heritage through innovation, quality, and skills development.

Our Mission

Our mission is to design and produce high-quality, customised kente sashes that celebrate achievement, identity, and culture. We are committed to delivering professionally crafted products, supporting local artisans, and creating opportunities for young people through training in kente weaving and sash production.

Message from Founder : Sashmade was never just about fabric, design, or even celebration—it was born from a deeply personal moment. During my Master’s journey, I longed for something that could truly represent the years of hard work, the identity we had built as a class, and the pride of reaching that milestone. What I found in the market didn’t reflect that depth, that meaning, or that story. So, we created our own.

What started as a simple desire to feel seen and represented quickly became something much bigger. The response from others students who felt the same need, who wanted more than just a decorative sash sparked the beginning of Sashmade.

Today, Sashmade stands as a Ghanaian brand rooted in purpose, culture, and craftsmanship. We create premium customised kente sashes that go beyond aesthetics. Every piece is designed to embody achievement, identity, and cultural pride. Each sash carries a story your story.

But beyond the products, Sashmade has become something deeply personal to me. It is my home, my community, and a source of immense joy. It represents the courage to create something meaningful, the patience to grow it, and the belief that even the smallest idea can evolve into something impactful.

When I think about the future of Sashmade what it could become, the lives it could touch it both excites and humbles me. There’s a certain fear in seeing such vast potential, but within that fear is also purpose, ambition, and hope.

We have come a long way, and this is only the beginning.

Thank you for being part of this journey.
